On-Street Parking Services

With cities seeking ways to reduce operating expenses and find innovative ways to close growing budget deficits a managed services model can maximize the value of a city's on-street parking program, while allowing the city to retain policy control.

A growing number of cities are looking to unlock the value of their on-street parking assets. Some of the advantages of this approach include:

- Risk Transfer – Duncan will absorb some important risks including potential fluctuations in revenue; maintenance and other operations; and system performance in this partnership, transferring these risks away from the City and its constituents.
- Positive Financial Outcome – The City maintains the flexibility to apply the significant upfront payment to advance projects, improve services and/or reduce budget shortfalls.
- Performance Improvements – Through our specialization and commitment to continuous improvement, Duncan will bring new technology and innovation to bear over the entire term of our partnership, ensuring increased motorist satisfaction levels.

Duncan provides Parking Management Services under a financial or contractual structure that suits each City's objectives and requirements, and will work with cities to determine a contractual and operational model which maximizes the city's net revenues, but also supports the policy and strategic objectives of the City.
