Dear City Council Member Kristina Duggan, City Clerk and City Manager

Subject: Smart City Viability by Soviologist DW

Good day and I hope this email finds you all well. The technology to enhance the productivity and increase the economic viability of individuals should be the main factor in creating a smart city, not surveillance and restriction of privacy and freedom. Better internet for attracting small business for strong commerce creating communication, not constant police briefings only stifling creative freedom. A McKinsey study highlights the great advantages that technology can create for cities and communities. Creative quality of life enhancements and business use is key to translating the smart technology infrastructure into life helping advantages and revenue building platforms, not monitoring restraints. I appeal to you to keep the citizen use paramount for real lasting viability, most of all.

Dear Mr. Wilson:

Thank you for communicating your "commentary for useful measures of reform and fairness." The issue of police accountability is of great concern to this office. We appreciate your thoughts regarding this matter.

Very truly yours,

GEORGE GASCÓN
District Attorney
