Forbidden City Has become a one of Long Beach's better restaurant even with it's odd location. Entertainment would only make it even better, there should no question over whether entertainment should be allowed. With that extra attraction it would make it a complete restaurant and better able to compete with other restaurants in the area. Being a resident in this area we really need more music venues. It seems just the opposite is happening. Long beach use to have a lot more music but it seem as though our city officials prefer much less. It would be a crime if Forbidden City were to go under just because some people don't like music.
