Re: WSP Narrative

Date: March 16, 2008

Contract Number 2007WSP18

NARRATIVE:

The Winter Shelter Program, operated by the Long Beach Rescue Mission (LBRM), came to a successful completion on the morning of March 16, 2008.

We are proud to say that this operating year ran seamlessly and without serious incidents or grievances. This is due, in part, to having a strong team of staff and administrators, and their ability to mitigate concerns.

In collaboration with outside social service agencies and community partners, hygiene items and donated clothing were frequently made available to clients. Mental health workers from The Village program were on-site nightly to speak with clients and provide information and mental health referrals. A representative from the VA program was also on-site several times a week to work with veterans, and he was able to get several clients into transitional housing and other programs.

By all accounts, the community at large was pleased with the overall management of the shelter. LBRM applied due diligence in the upkeep of the neighborhood and a "good neighbor" policy. The shelter surroundings were kept clean and orderly, with no complaints from the neighbors sharing our building. In fact, we received a positive letter of reference from the landlord, Mr. Dam Roman, praising the winter shelter as excellent tenants, and expressing regret at the closing of the shelter.

SERVICES:

Case management services were provided both at the shelter in the evenings, as well as at the Multi-Service Center during the day, where clients were also able to shower and take advantage of other services such as mail, phones, and information and referrals. The Multi-Service Center also provided a space for Winter Shelter case managers to provide services to families experiencing homelessness. A total of 55 families received assistance through the Winter Shelter this season, receiving hotel and food vouchers and links to other service providers to find more permanent or transitional housing. Families were placed with Catholic Charities, LBRM's Lydia House, and other programs.

In the last two weeks of the Winter Shelter program, the case managers worked especially hard to find housing placements for clients. Many clients were placed in transitional housing programs and are working with other service providers to find employment and links to other services.

One couple in particular volunteered with the kitchen staff every night during the shelter, assisting with the dinner, and clean-up. These two clients are now in a transitional housing program and told us that being around the positive role models of the staff at the Winter Shelter encouraged them to start trying to make something better of their lives. Not only did we benefit from having such hard-working clients, they also have been able to move on with their lives and are no longer homeless. There are many more stories like this; we are glad that so many people were able to find shelter this winter season, and hopefully have moved on to better places.

STAFF TRAINING:

There was no additional staff training in the last two weeks of the program.

SPECIAL EVENTS/HIGHLIGHTS:

The strong case-management that found placements for so many clients at the end of the shelter is certainly a highlight, as exemplified by the story told above.

We had a staff get-together at the end of the shelter and many staff attended. They were able to share their experiences of working at the shelter and how it had also changed their lives.

In all, the Winter Shelter was a positive and smooth experience this season, kept many people off the street and in a warm and safe environment, and provided an opportunity for many to take advantage of available services and programs.

A Pinch Of Salt

I'm taking a chance here. This story could result in my getting the Bad Dad of the Year award.

But this is what happened, and I've always been honest with you, dear reader, so here goes.

Alex e-mailed me a couple of weeks ago and said he and his lovely wife Lynn had decided to go to Vegas for a weekend. I haven't seen them for several. months, so a meeting made sense.

Then I realized that the weekend was Easter, I had already committed to meet them, so I decided that for the first time in a decade, I'd miss sunrise services.

I hedged my bets with a Good Friday service before we hit the road. I needed all the help I could get — I had arranged to take the son and daughter-in-law to their first Vegas show.

The show was Cirque du Soleil's "Zumanity." It is marketed as the sensual side of Cirque; something you would see only in Vegas. At last count, there are five different Cirque shows in Las Vegas, but Zumanity is the only one that couldn't make it on the road.

That's right, I took my son and his wife to a topless show, and on Easter weekend. In my defense, I'd have to say that Zumanity probably is the classiest topless show you could find. The feats of the performers quickly made the fact that they weren't wearing tops secondarv.

Then there's the reality that women of the gymnastic persuasion tend to be, how shall I put it, focused on developing talent rather than chests. This was no bimbo night.

Don't get me wrong — I'm not pretending that this was high art. It was a circus with an emphasis on the libido. There was little innuendo and a lot of blatant sexuality.

But, aside from some language I could have done without, there was little I would call offensive. It was done in fun, and most of the sold-out audience took it that way.

Alex and Lynn are adults, and I believe them when they say they enjoyed the show. I'll guarantee that I was more uncomfortable than they were. I do know the discussion afterward was about the skills of the performers, not their bodies.

Pastor Don probably won't accept the argument, but I'll say that I could have done far worse than Zumanity in picking a show to share. If morality is at issue, I could have done better, too.

I checked again the next day, and it didn't appear that either of the kids were the worse for the experience. They weren't interested in debauchery before. and weren't after, either,

In some ways, I felt more guilty about paying the extra five bucks at Easter brunch so that they could have champagne. Again, though, they didn't seem the worse for the chance to toast with the bubbly. And I did get to offer a blessing before the toast.

Alex is 29 now, and it seems like I'm still getting used to having an adult son. Maybe it will be easier when he is the father of my grandchildren (they promised again last weekend - and accused me of picking Zumanity as a not-so-subtle hint).

Zumanity was fun, and I don't think I've messed with my son's morality. All the same, I think I'll go back to paying for the golf when Alex and Lynn are around.

I'll be more comfortable, even if they both beat me.

Homeless Shelter Ends Winter Well

The Los Angeles Homeless Services Authority Winter Shelter Program at 2235 Lemon Ave. operated by the Long Beach Rescue Mission (LBRM) came to a successful completion on the morning of March 16 — happily, to clear skies. We are proud to say that this season ran without serious incident or grievance. due in large part to having a strong team of staff and administrators, and their ability

By all accounts, the homeless we served and the community at large was pleased with the overall management of the shelter. Our staff applied due diligence in the upkeep of the neighborhood and a "good neighbor" policy. Although bordered by residents on two sides, there were no complaints from the neighbors or businesses sharing our cul-de-sac. We received a very positive letter of reference from the landlord, Mr. Dan Roman, praising the winter shelter as excellent tenants, and expressing regret at the closing of the shelter. Even the neighbors were sorry to see us leave.

For the first time. I believe. the shelter has been outside the First or Second council districts. After hearing of some concern from Signal Hill PD, I also attended a Signal Hill City Council meeting and gave them the same assurances I gave Long Beach Council along with my cell phone number.

Rehab House To The Editor.

How do you feel knowing that there is a rehab house in your neighborhood?

There is a rehab house across the street from me. At first I couldn't understand why there would be so many people hanging out there at all hours in the front of their home and sitting on the curbs crying or walking down the street bewildered. Then I noticed even more people would show up on one and two nights a week for some kind of class or something.

Then I noticed that they were paying attention to what I was doing. That was odd. Then they started saying unpleasant things to me and about me.

I bought this house to live in a friendly, neighborly place. I don't think that I or my young son should be subject to this in my own home. I used to love to go in the front yard and garden, but now all I want to do is build a tall fence in front of my yard and hide.

I called code enforcement, and the people don't hang out in the front as much. But they do hang out in the back and come (Continued on Page 42A)

Dear Mr. Lewis,

I'm very sorry to hear that you will be leaving our building on Lemon St. Your organization has handled the property so well. You have been a model tenant. I must admit; I, along with my neighbors, was concerned when you moved in, but you proved us wrong. Even my neighbors don't want to see you go.

Good luck on your search for a better fitting property. If you don't find something that suits your needs, please give me a call.
