Follow up on Tuesday February 2019 City Council Agenda Item dealing with the commendable concept and plans for a Homeless Center in Council District 9 In Long Beach.

The record should reflect that the comments of this resident who has lived in Long Beach since 1977

Set forth last night included:

My support for the concept in Chief.

The comments also included articulation of the following:

Circa a month before a young resident (unknown to me) when dealing with an entirely separate Project-approved for the 9th District—where he lived stated:

The 9th residents in the 9th District have the LOWEST LIFE EXPECTANCY of any residents with the City of Long Beach.

When referencing said comments—MY expressed view on that such was that the City should test the Waters and Pipe lines through which said waters flow---visa a via the

CLEARLY DISEASED AND DEMENTED MIND SETS OF THOSE WHO HAVE BEEN CHAMPIONING of the DEGENERATE SNOOPE DOG---WITH HIS DEMENTED AND DISEASED MIND SET AS TO WHO WOMEN SHOULD BE VIEWED AND TREATED

A few minutes later an apparent fellow traveler of Councilman Richardson—who also lives in District 9—stated—he drinks the referenced water —and there is nothing wrong with HIM!!!!

Indeed, the 9th District residents have been plagued with the DISEASED AND DEMENTED MINDSET for decades wince LONG BEACH'S NUMBER 1 THUG ROAMED UNCHECKED ..as Chronicled by Patrick O'Dowd—a LBPD Long Beach Detective.

Come we know to the most DISTURBING CONSEQUENCES OF THE REFERENCED DISEASED AND

DEMENTED CONDUCT

Among those to be housed in said facility---are WOMEN---who WOULD be exposed to the DISEASED
& DEMENTED MIND SETS of Councilman Richardson/His Fellow /Travelers such as LONG BEACH'S 1
THUG!!!!

That knocks on the door of the good BISHOP OF ROME-and those that came before the GOOD BISHOP have had to deal with it!!!!

Long Beach's No. 1 thug

ove Long Beach. I work here as a police officer and spend much of my off time here in the restaurants, on the golf courses, and in parks. However, on Saturday, June 28, for first time, I was embarrassed to be associated with this city.

In this day, I was called in to work early morning with a dozen of my fellow officers to provide security at Long Beach Poly High School. Snoop Dogg, the Rolling Twenties Crip gangster-turned rap star, decided to host a basketball game there.

The members of the Long Beach Police Department are very familiar with Snoop Dogg. He was born and raised in Long Beach. He has committed many crimes in this city. He and his fellow members of the Rolling Twenties Crip street gang have terrorized the innocent citizens of Long Beach for years — killing them, stealing from them, and selling drugs to them. Snoop Dogg and his posse have injected fear into the hearts of citizens living in certain parts of Long Beach, making them think twice for their safety before leaving their homes. However, this is a free country and I suppose Snoop Dogg has a right to hold a charity basketball game if he stays within the laws of the city.

During the half-time festivities at Snoop Dogg's charity basketball game in Poly High School's gymnasium, I heard a voice come over the public address system. This female speaker began yelling, "Give it up for Snoop Dogg! Come on, Long Beach. Show him some love!" As the young, impressionable, teenage spectators began yelling at the tops of their lungs in appreciation of this convicted felon and admitted gang member, the speaker apparently did not feel they were yelling loudly enough. She continued by saying something to the effect of, "Come on, Long Beach, is that all you got? We don't show Snoop enough love for all he does for this city. Now show him some love!" The crowd's cheers reached a fever pitch. The last straw was when the speaker called Snoop Dogg "Long Beach's No. 1 son."

It seemed ironic that Snoop Dogg was being thanked for all he has done for this community. Is it that easy to erase a decade of participation in gang-related criminal activity? Can a charity basketball game make up for all the blood Snoop Dogg and his fellow gang members have spilled on the streets of Long Beach? I chalked it up to the fact that the speaker was surely some type of rap music promoter who neither knew of nor cared about the crimes in Snoop Dogg's past or the gang affiliations he still claims.

Not until the speaker introduced herself as Councilperson Laura Richardson did I become embarrassed to be associated with this city.

How sad that a few thousand dollars thrown into a charity event could turn a councilperson's head and make her forget where that money came from. Surely there are many other products of Long Beach who are more deserving of the title "Long Beach's No. 1 son" before an admitted street thug like Snoop Dogg. By bestowing such lavish praise upon a person such as Snoop Dogg, Richardson alienates all the hard-working, law-abiding citizens of this great city. I think she owes us all an apology.

Patrick O'Dowd is a gang detective with the Long Beach Police Department.
