Please describe why you wish to serve on the Independent Redistricting Commission and share any additional experience, community activities, or other qualifications that make you a strong candidate for the Commission, including, but not limited to, analytical skills, familiarity with the City's neighborhoods and communities, ability to be impartial, and ability to work cooperatively with other potential commissioners. (Max. 1800 Characters, approximately 250-300 words)

My interest in serving on the Independent Redistricting Commission comes from my desire to be an active civic participant in the City of Long Beach, and maximize my lived experiences and formal education. This city has been home since 1999, and through this long residency, I have seen firsthand the disparities in access to political power, resources, and community investment in multiple neighborhoods that makeup this wonderfully diverse city. As a product of the sixth and seventh districts, I am profoundly aware of the importance of participation and representation, which has guided my education and political engagement. My bachelor's degree in American Studies introduced me to the process of redistricting and its fundamental role in a representative democracy. This introduction to the American democratic process informed my decision to become a Crew Leader for the 2010 U.S. Census and pursue a master's in Cultural Studies that same year. Currently as an Academic Counselor at UC Irvine, I am not only able to continue my advocacy work by representing a sizable heterogeneous student population, but I also actively work to advance access to quality education. I am trusted to enforce policies equitably and to timely meet varying institutional goals all while working cooperatively. Through these varied experiences, I have learned that it is not enough to have a sound policy if you cannot implement it. Success is contingent upon securing community trust and being able to identify with the values and needs of the people. My passion for participation in the democratic process has been a constant guiding principle in my life and has encouraged me to apply for this Commissionership. I hope to contribute to procurement of fair representation for all who reside in the city I call home.

(Max. 1800 Characters, approximately 250-300 words)

In this modern age of technology and information, it is more important than ever to use facts and truth to make fair assessments of reality. I understand the importance of using data and information to come to an accurate conclusion and to not search for only facts that confirm my own personal bias. The role redistricting takes in our democratic process is the core infrastructure in how we best create a representative government to reflect its constituents. I originally began working in Long Beach back in 2013 as a General Manager of a rental company. While there it helped me create a strong belief that a team with a mission will always accomplish more than an individual with a goal. Being given feedback and critique is always a vital moment where one can grow to put together the most effective strategy. I always valued working with colleagues to create a cohesive unit whether it was between neighboring stores or within my own team. It was always critical to be communicating with other locations to best fill equipment needs and always be willing to help others to achieve the best results for everyone. Using data and reports varying from profit and loss to equipment workload reports was a crucial part to assess and implement strategies to produce the best results. I would best use these skills to work with other potential commissioners successfully to provide an impartial and honest commission.
