Recommendation to request City Manager to conduct further research and recommend potential revenue-generating ballot initiatives in Long Beach as a means of addressing critical funding needs such as increasing public safety.

On September 7, 2004, as part of the adoption of the FY 05 Budget, the City Council approved the recommendation of the Budget Oversight Committee (BOC) to focus on potential resources that would address the structural deficit and possibly alleviate the amount of reductions to core public services and/or City personnel. During the past several months, the BOC has actively pursued research on seven viable revenue options including:

- |                               |                               |
|-------------------------------|-------------------------------|
| Public Safety Revenue Options | Transient Occupancy Tax (TOT) |
| Library Assessment Tax        | Parking Lot Tax               |
| Utility User Tax (UUT)        | Oil Production Tax            |
| Local Sales Tax               |                               |

In addition to establishing a comprehensive understanding of the ballot initiative process, the BOC explored the revenue generating potential of each measure and obtained electoral results for all agencies in California that had similar ballot initiatives in either the 2004 or 2005 elections.

Furthermore, the research conducted by the BOC provided detailed information on each of the above measures including the type, electoral results, election date, amounts, projected annual revenue, sunset date and purpose or possible uses by surveying comparable agencies. The BOC's findings have been prepared in a detailed report and will be provided in its entirety.

Although the information gathered by the BOC has laid a foundation, further indepth analysis is necessary to establish the feasibility of these options. When surveying cities that have pursued initiatives such as Oakland, San Luis Obispo, Porterville and Morgan Hill, it was found that prior to recommending specific initiatives, the next step usually includes engaging professional input to determine the viability and magnitude of potential initiatives, types of election, public support, timing and identification of stakeholders.
