PRM Wins American Planning Association Awards

Willow Springs Park

Long Beach Parks, Recreation and Marine (PRM) won two prestigious awards from the California Chapter of the American Planning Association (APA) on October 8, and was recognized for outstanding achievements in the planning field. PRM received the 2018 Public Outreach Award of Merit for the Uptown Open Space Vision Plan and the 2018 Large Jurisdiction Award of Excellence for the Willow Springs Wetlands Restoration Project.

"These awards highlight the vision of our staff and commitment of our community in working together to create open space in our city that provides accessible areas for recreation and places for residents to enjoy nature and experience local history," said Mayor Robert Garcia.

The Uptown Open Space Vision Plan (Plan) was led by the Office of Councilmember Rex Richardson, PRM, the Department of Health and Human Services, and City Fabrick (a non-profit design studio). The Plan, approved in July 2018, drew upon community input to creatively identify and enhance public open spaces to provide accessibility within a 10-minute walk for residents of North Long Beach. The Plan was formed by a three-phase, community-driven engagement process, which culminated in a "Color Block Walk" event where residents used washable color powders to express possibilities for additional open space.

The Willow Springs Wetlands Restoration Project (Project) was led by PRM and the Office of Sustainability. The Project, opened in October 2017 and was honored for the visionary planning process that led to the restoration of 11 acres of wetlands that highlight the pivotal role they played in the City of Long Beach's establishment in the late 1800's. Visitors now discover a walking loop through a series of bio-swales that flow to one acre of restored wetlands and 10 acres of native habitat; a constructed spring that mimics the original artesian spring that provided water to early Long Beach; a water basin that cleans and diverts water to be reused on site; and an outdoor environmental education classroom.

"I am very proud of the efforts of staff from PRM and the Office of Sustainability who created a process that involved our community in laying the groundwork for these two important projects and for working hard to move them forward," said PRM Director Gerardo Mouet.

APA California provides vision and leadership that fosters better planning for California, builds public and political support for sound planning and provides its members with the tools, services and support that advance the art and science of planning. Volunteers Make California Coastal Cleanup Day a Success

On Saturday, September 15, El Dorado Regional Park and Nature Center staff organized 602 volunteers who removed over 2,415 pounds of trash from beaches at five sites, during the 34th annual statewide Coastal Cleanup Day event.

Volunteers cleaned Alamitos Bay Marina, Belmont Pier, Cherry Beach, the Peninsula, and the Sea Scout Base near Mother's Beach. The volunteers were led by site captains, which included staff from the Aquarium of the Pacific, Clean LB, Seal Beach Yacht Club, Long Beach Marine Institute, and El Dorado Nature Center. Educational groups from Algalita Marine Research and Education, Seal Beach Wildlife Refuge, Surfrider Foundation, and El Dorado Nature Center provided information to the volunteers.

This annual statewide event draws over 65,000 volunteers in a joint effort to clean up our waterways and coastline.

Ruth Ricker Social Hall Dedicated

On October 3, the social hall at the Chavez Park Jenny Oropesa Community Center was renamed the "Ruth Ricker Social Hall" in honor of former community leader and Senior Advisory Commissioner Ruth Ricker.

A native of New York, Ruth Ricker was a lover of the arts, especially literature and writing. After moving to Long Beach she supported the East Village Art Walk, the Long Beach Symphony, and the City's art scene. Her involvement in the City led to her appointment to the Senior Citizen Advisory Commission, where she focused on senior programming and distribution of hot meals for older adults. She also served on the City's General Plan Commission and was a member of former Congresswoman Juanita Millender-McDonald's Senior Congressional Commission. Ms. Ricker passed away on July 23, 2015.

Ruth's children Jason and Juanita and her friend Max Viltz were among those who attended the naming event and who also planted a Jacaranda tree, with blooming purple flowers (her favorite color) in her honor.

Animal Care Services Bureau Update

Animal Shelter Euthanasia Continues To Drop

Over the past several years the Department of Parks, Recreation, and Marine, Animal Care Services Bureau (ACS) has worked diligently to reduce shelter population and euthanasia rates, while also working to improve outcomes for the animals who visit the City's shelter.

In findings presented in Phase One and Two of a recent City Auditor's review, industry-identified best practice recommendations were identified to assist ACS in achieving improved operational efficiency, effectiveness, and overall service to the community. The City Auditor's report is available at www.cityauditorlauradoud.com.

While ACS continues to address the City Auditor's recommendations for improvements, the City notes that in 2017 the combined live release rates for dogs and cats was 81%, significantly higher than Los Angeles County and Orange County rates and was a marked improvement over the same statistics for 2016. Further, the City continues to show consistent improvements in total live impounds, total euthanasia, and live release rates year-over-year, over the last several years. In addition, ACS' current year-to-date statistics for the first eight months of 2018 show the department is on track for another year-over-year decrease in impounds and euthanasia annually for cats and dogs combined.

The City Auditor's review called for the creation a long-term strategic plan to identify priorities and align resources needed to meet the goals of the community and the City. A new mayoral-appointed Animal Care Visioning Task Force will provide input into the plan.

"Find Some Bunny To Love"

Know Your Long Beach Parks: Long Beach Municipal Cemetery

The 4.35-acre Long Beach Municipal Cemetery at Willow Street and Orange Avenue was established in 1901 when William Willmore, the developer of what became Long Beach, was interred there. The land was part of Rancho Los Cerritos, and had been subsequently purchased by Willmore. Originally known as Signal Hill Cemetery, it was a burial ground for Bixby Ranch employees. Although a Bixby mausoleum is located on the property, no member of the Bixby family is interred there.

The PRM Maintenance Operations Bureau is responsible for the operation and upkeep of the cemetery. Staff manually water the grounds, and handle tree maintenance, weeding, edging, turf mowing, and “righting” of headstones that sink due to subsidence. Staff often deals with incidents of vandalism.

Staff works with the Department of Public Works to open and close graves, a job performed with care and in compliance with state laws and standards of practice for cemeteries. The main obstacle with handling the burial sites is the accuracy of the records that have been kept. Sometimes there is conflict about who actually lies in the ground. Staff rely on templates and maps with coordinates, so they do not disturb the surrounding soil and grave sites.

Learn about the cemetery’s history at the Historical Society of Long Beach’s 23rd Annual Tour of Long Beach Municipal Cemetery and the adjacent Sunnyside Cemetery on Saturday, October 27 from 9 a.m. to 2:40 p.m. Visit www.hslb.org or call 562.424.2220, for more information.
