Commission Process

The City of Long Beach Independent Redistricting Commission has been undergoing this process of public redistricting since January

- Presentations from multiple state and local redistricting commissioners.
- Legal overview from Justin Levitt and the Brennan Center
- History of Redistricting from Common Cause.

Commission Process

The charge of the commission was to draw lines in an open/transparent process.

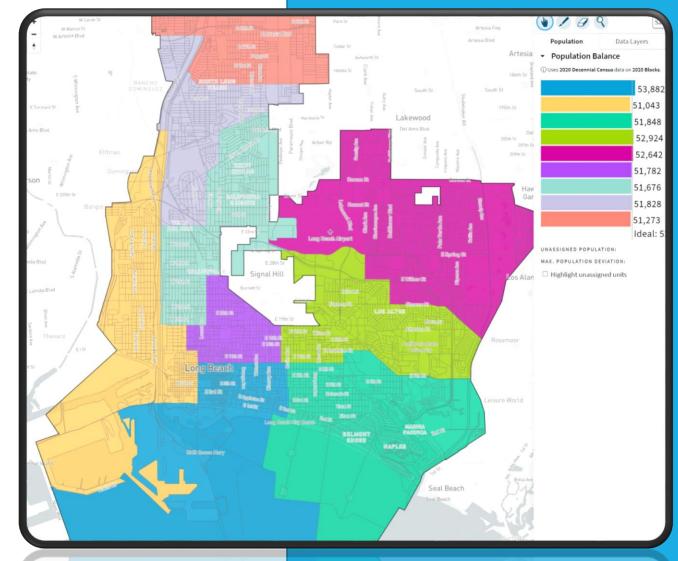

- Draw lines following VRA and traditional criteria – compact, contiguous, equal population.
- No consideration of incumbents or candidates, or political parties.
- Public hearings in each council district, public map trainings.

The City of Long Beach Independent Redistricting Commission obtained dozens of public map submissions.

- Use of two tools Maptitude Online and DistrictR to solicit input.
- Several in-person mapping workshops.
- Online training in use of both programs at outreach hearings.
- Dozens of full citywide plans and community of interest submissions.

We have converted dozens of full and partial plans to our "Atlas" format which includes:

- Cover page with full districting plan overview.
- Data table with population, deviation, ethnic population, Citizen Voting Age Population (CVAP)Ethnicity and breakdowns for each district (numbered 0-8 for a complete plan)
- Individual district maps with street-details and data tables and charts.

We have converted dozens of full and partial plans to our "Atlas" format which includes:

- Cover page with full districting plan overview.
- Data table with population, deviation, ethnic population, Citizen Voting Age Population (CVAP)Ethnicity and breakdowns for each district (numbered 0-8 for a complete plan)
- Individual district maps with street-details and data tables and charts.

There were dozens of Community of Interest maps drawn by the public, each also converted to Atlas format.

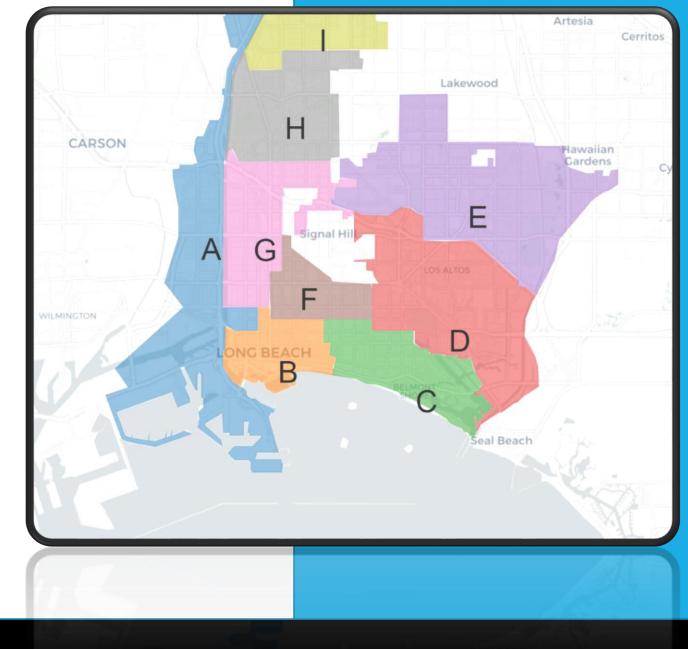

- Community of Interest submissions provided to commission with descriptions provided by the public.
- All COI submissions are available on DistrictR site with points of interest and descriptions.
- Communities of Interest used to develop draft plans based on commission direction.

In addition to PDF maps of all submissions, there are also web maps provided.

These allow the user to zoom in to street level for a closer inspection.

In addition to PDF maps of all submissions, there are also web maps provided.

These allow the user to zoom in to street level for a closer inspection of where district lines are placed.

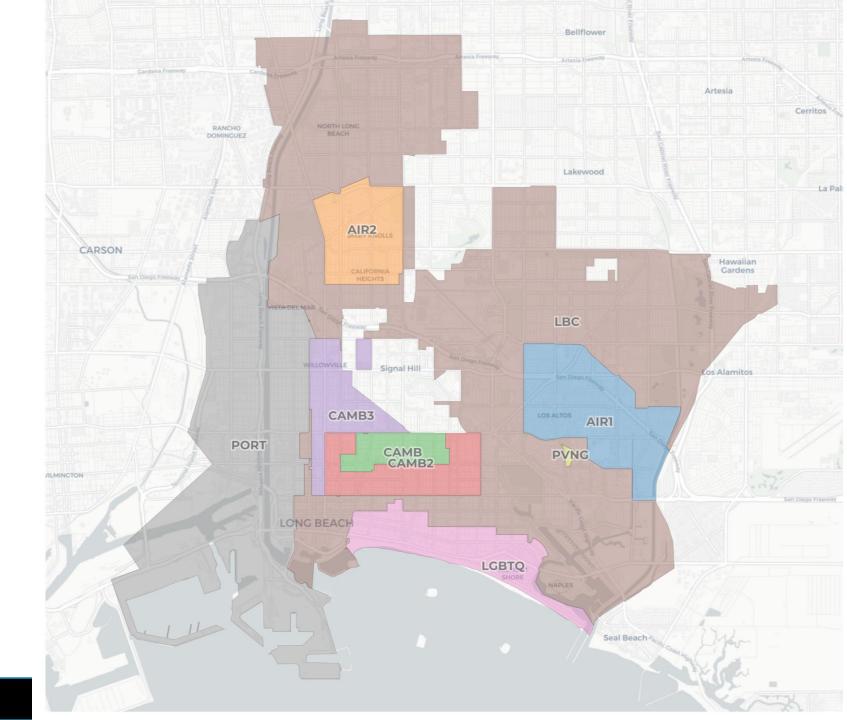

Mapping COI

Several of the COI had related maps from the DistrictR site.

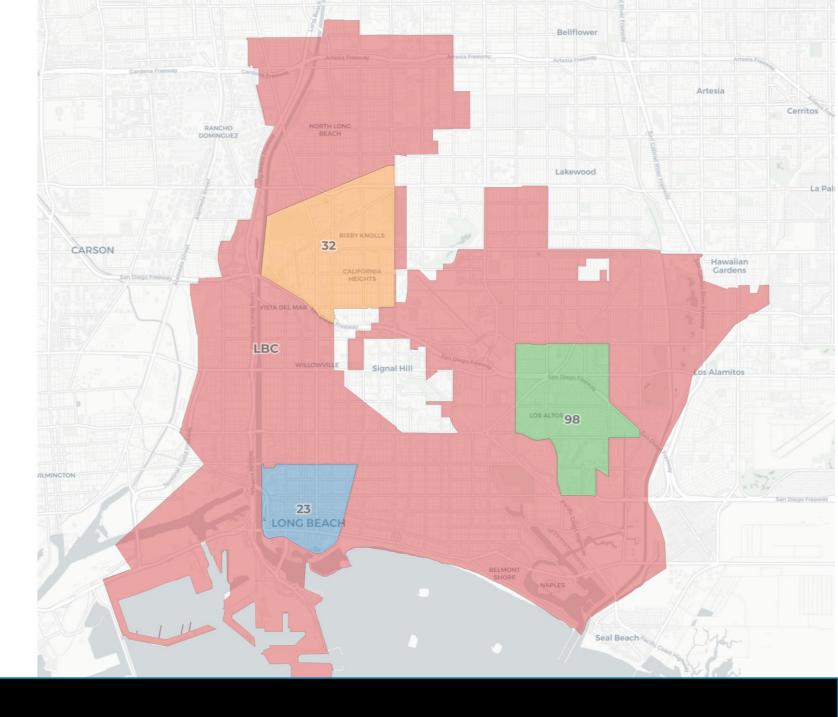

- Airport community
- Puvungna
- Cambodian Community
- Ports
- LGBTQ

Mapping COI

Neighborhoods identified to keep together were also mapped and can be seen as overlays of the maps.

- Bixby Knolls / Los Cerritos
- Los Altos / CSULB
- Downtown Neighborhoods

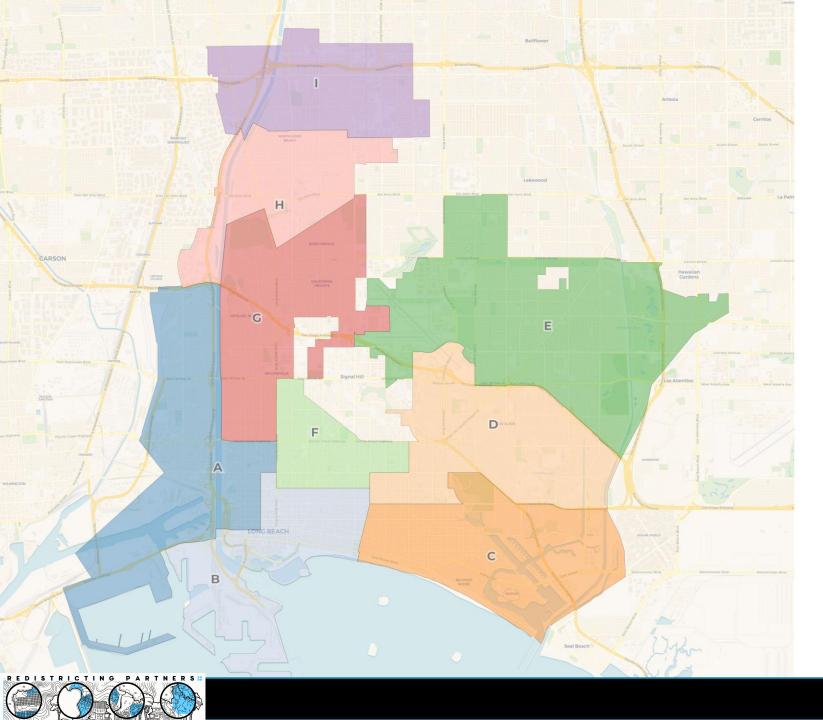

Commissioners selected a single map at the draft map hearing to move forward to receive public feedback and asked for four other publicly drawn maps to be presented at tonight's hearing.

- IRC Draft Plan 1 has been produced for the public and placed on the IRC Website
- IRC Draft Plan 1 was derived from combining two of the draft plans (C and D), along with recommended changes from the community.

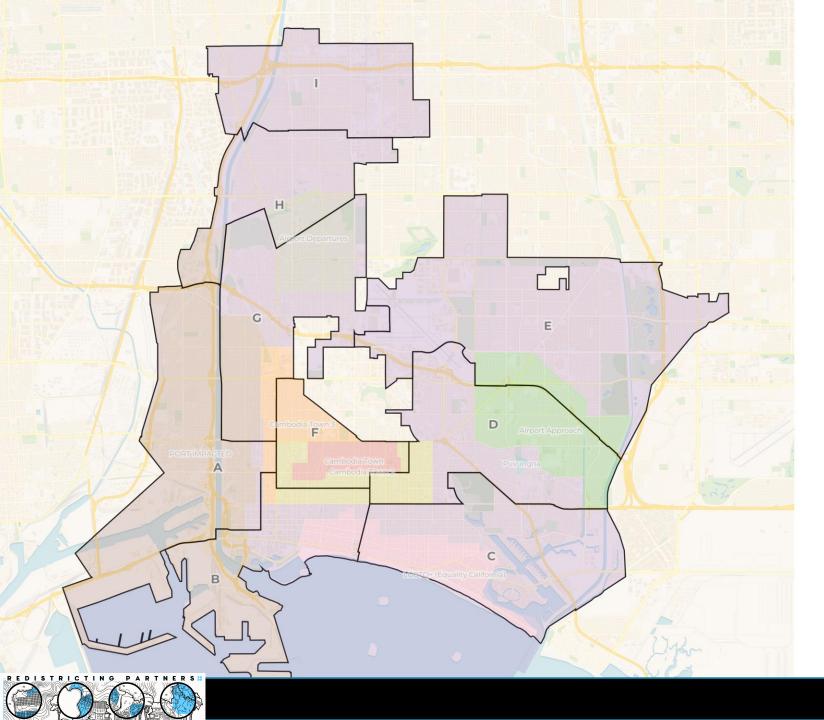

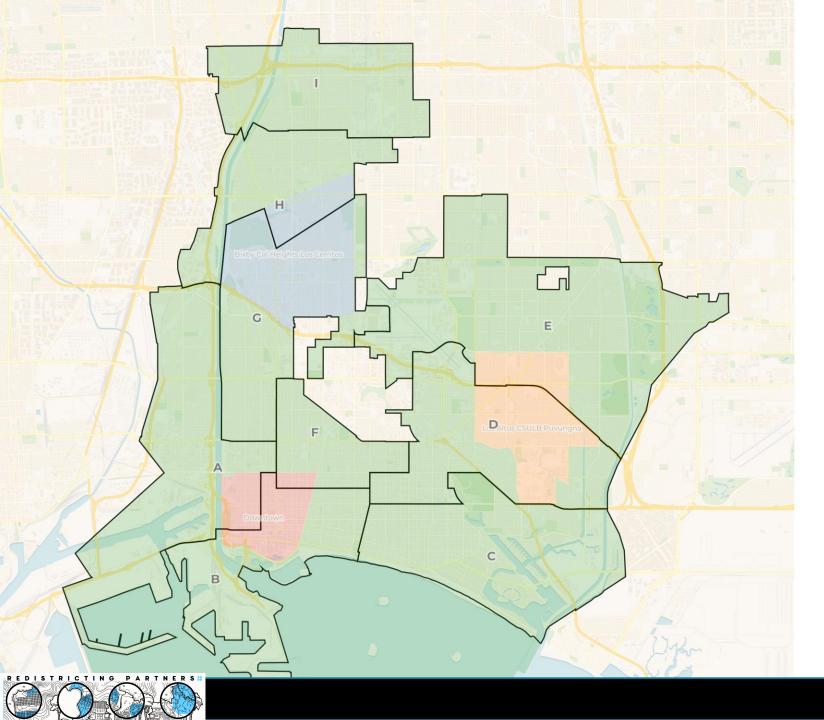

Plan meets commission required criteria and also achieves the following:

- Deviation of 8.5%

Amendments to Plans

Changes to plans may need balancing and understanding of tradeoffs. Three types of changes.

- 1) Keeps within deviation and doesn't necessitate other changes.
- Identifying a change and a possible tradeoff with that same district a "one to one swap"
- 3) Identify a change and a set of districts that involves multiple districts a "rotation"

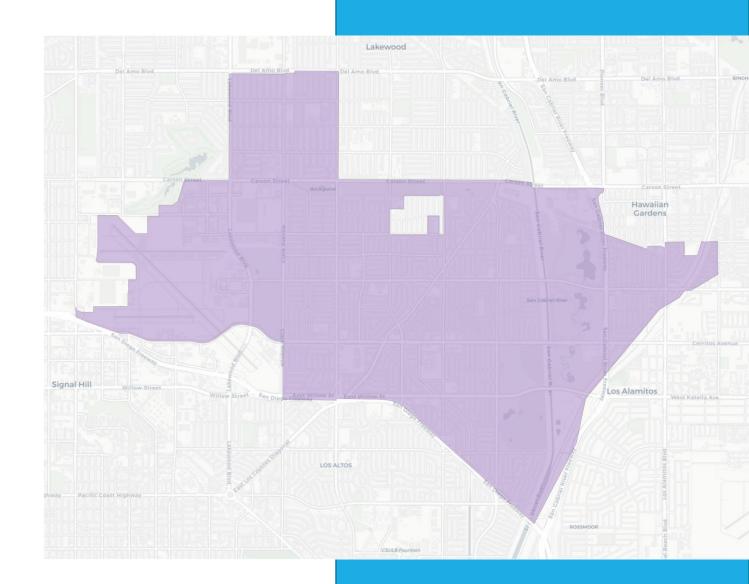

Simple Change

Changes that impact just two districts trading population.

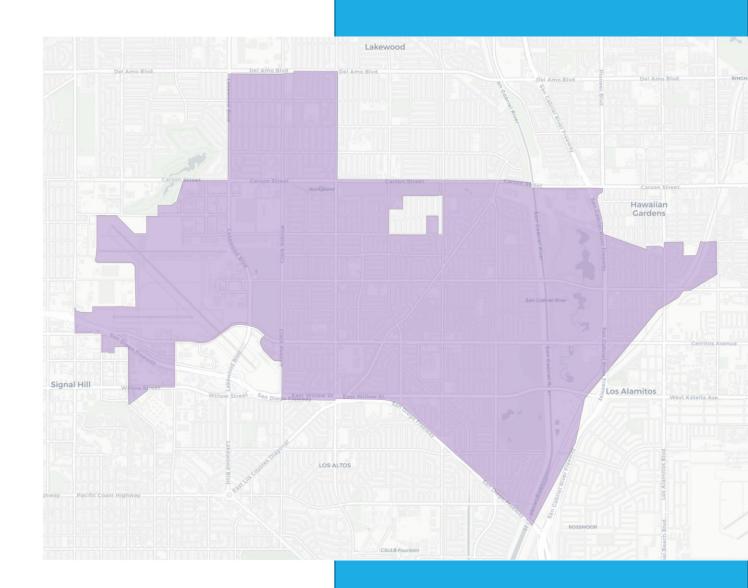

- This district with a portion of the western end that reaches to the airport.
- Could shift airport connection without an impact on the overall plan.

Amendments to Plans

If there are proposed changes we can look at those individually and provide input on if they can be achieved easily or require more adjustments.

- We have access to the population counts by census block group so we can quickly provide an estimated impact of any change.
- The Margin of Error should be ample to provide for small changes without additional steps.

Amendments to Plans

If there are proposed changes we can look at those individually and provide input on if they can be achieved easily or require more adjustments.

- If major changes need to be seen before consideration, we can take a break to perform those changes.
- Any changes that are approved can be completed and made public after the hearing.

What's Next

- Tonight's Community Feedback hearing to obtain public input on IRC Draft Map 1 and other potential draft maps
- All commission draft plans will go to a final plan selection hearing.
- Final Plan selection hearing will consider only draft plans that have been made public for seven days.
- Numbering of districts is done at the end of the process by the commission using a formula of minimizing the number of residents who have to change district numbers.
