Long Beach has many vibrant and active communities. Many of these communities experience parking impacts due to a thriving business corridor, proximity to park or recreation areas, and dense residential communities with insufficient parking to accommodate the number of occupants in a residence. For many years residents living in these parking impacted areas have discussed the possibility of encouraging residents to use their garages for parking, rather than parking their vehicles on the public street. Barriers to meaningful use of garages includes the changes in car sizes that has occurred in decades since many garages were built making them inaccessible for modern cars, the cost and difficulty in permitting and constructing an updated garage, and the lack of enforcement for residents to use their private garages and driveways.

[Timing Considerations]

There is no significant financial impact for the preparation of a report, as the scope of the information requested falls within the data collection capacity of the specific departments. Additional resources and/or expertise may be necessary for the implementation of the recommendations in the report.
